

Tannehill State Park MTB Trail

Tannehill State Park is at the intersection of Jefferson, Bibb, and Tuscaloosa counties. It offers two main trails, both of which are fire road sized and are mostly gravel. The shorter Slave Quarters Trail is reasonably laid back and suitable for kids (there are some slight uphill, but nothing steep at all). The new MTB trail starts at the Collins House – there is parking in a green area across the street. The single track is 1.5 miles long. The trail then goes over the Folsom Bridge and onto the fire road sized Iron Road trail (take a hard right up the hill after the bridge). It runs through rolling terrain with several small steep climbs. It has a nice stream access point as well as a slave cemetery for the curious. The final climb is a steep ~200 ft. climb, followed by an equally steep decline. Halfway down the steep decline there is a sharp left to get onto the Slave Quarters trail to go back to Folsom Bridge (or you can follow the dashed line and take the road back to the start).

— MTB Trail – ~6.5 Miles

— Main Entrance

● Collins House

① Parking Area

② New MTB Trail

③ Folsom Bridge

④ Iron Road Trail

⑤ Stream Access

⑥ Bucksville – Montevallo
Stage Road Trail

⑦ Slave Cemetery

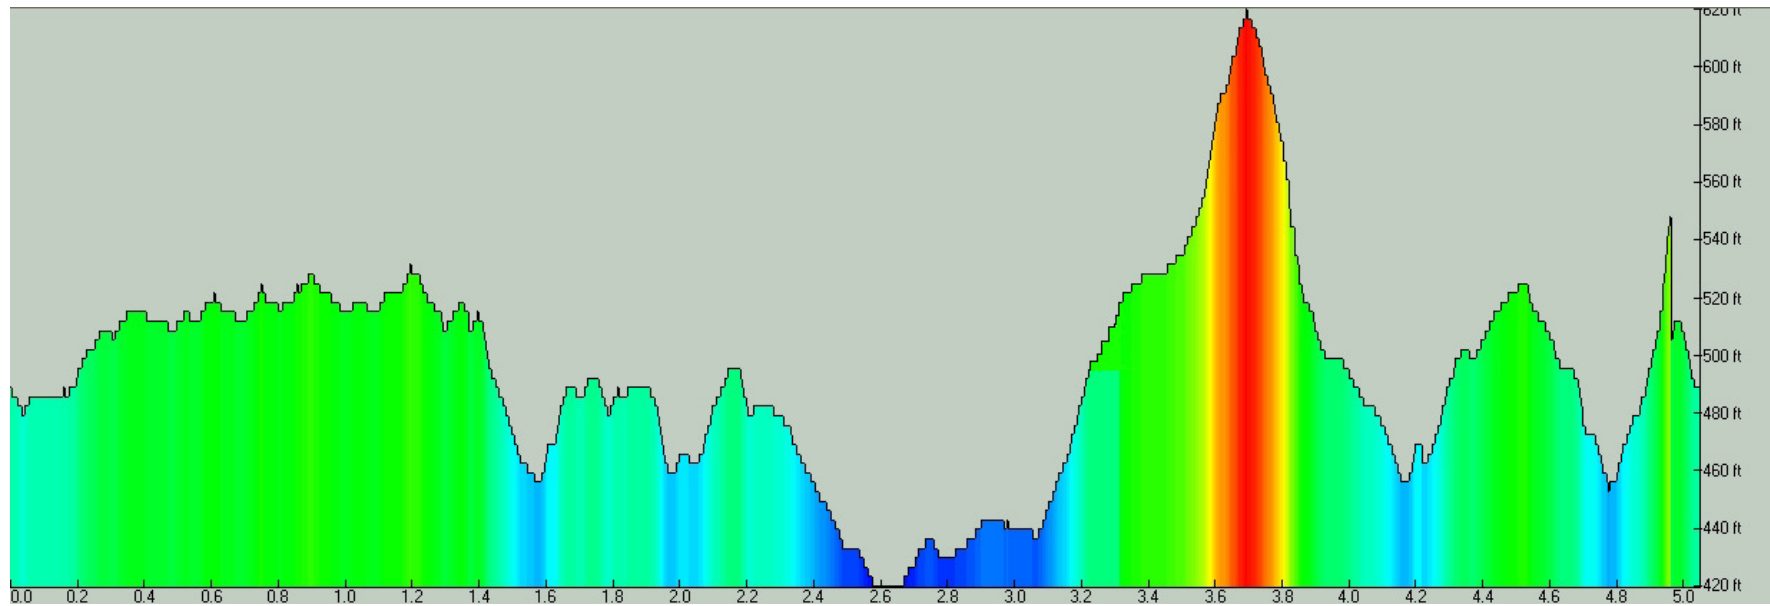

⑧ Crest of Trail

⑨ Private Camp

⑩ Slave Quarters Trail
Return to Start

Tannehill State Park MTB Elevation Trace (CCW Ride)

Collins House – Trailhead

New Bridge

